

NEW HIGH VALUE GHANA CEDI BANKNOTES WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

PUBLIC SECURITY FEATURES

1. NEW MOTION SURFACE STRIPE (SECURITY THREAD)

It is the wide shiny stripe that runs down the front of the banknote from top to bottom.

The upper part has a three-dimensional image of an Adinkra symbol moving above an apparently deep background: the symbol of 'STRENGTH' on the GH¢100, and 'EXCEPT GOD' symbol on the GH¢200.

The lower part of the stripe features the parliamentary mace on the GH¢100 and the state sword on the GH¢200. When tilted these images appear to move.

2. OPTICALLY VARIABLE MAGNETIC IMAGE (OVMI) - SPARK LIVE

Shiny colour changing images of the Adinkra symbols: 'STRENGTH' on the GH¢100 and 'EXCEPT GOD' on the GH¢200. When the note is tilted, a shiny bar moves up and down the symbols. The colour changes from Gold to Green when tilted.

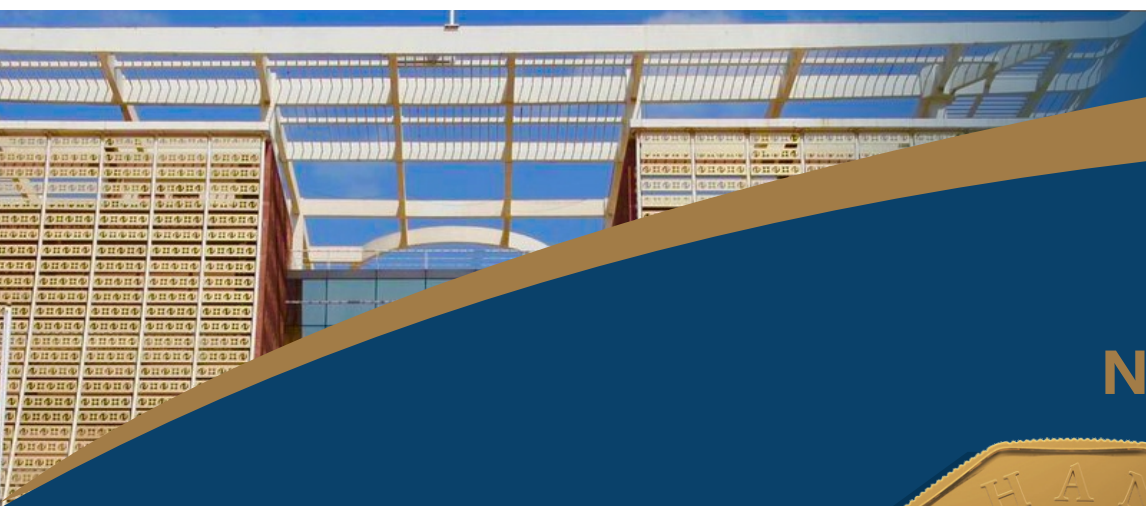

3. MORE PROMINENT WATERMARK

It is the image of Tetteh Quarshie with a cocoa pod, more noticeable in the plain star area of the banknote.

It becomes visible on both sides when viewed against light. The denomination value can also be seen in the watermark.

4. ENHANCED IRIDESCENT BAND AT THE BACK OF THE BANKNOTE

It is a golden band with gold bars at the back of the banknote, running from top to bottom. It can be seen more clearly when the note is tilted.

BANK OF GHANA

NEW GH¢2 COIN

Images

- The front image is the Ghana Coat of Arms.
- The back image is the Seat of Government building with surrounding fence.

The security feature on both sides of the coin are:

- Latent image which shows alternating image of the numeral '2' and star when tilted.
- Distinct ten (10) sided shape with serrations at the edges.
- Bimetallic material with outer gold colour and inner silver colour.
- Micro lettering of the small writing 'Ghana 2 Cedi' at the back of the coin.

